

Title: "Quantum computing for betterment of human life"

Abstract: Quantum computers are instruments to better human life. Quantum computers can be used in achieving breakthrough manufacturing performance, drug discovery, chemical simulations and design and new material discovery. It also helps building secure Internet and better financial systems. Quantum computers also helps in meeting sustainability goals. Quantum computers are important for betterment of human life