Dr. Utsav Banerjee received his BTech from the Indian Institute of Technology Kharagpur in 2013, and his SM and PhD from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 2017 and 2021 respectively. Since 2021, he has been with the Indian Institute of Science where he is currently an Assistant Professor in the Department of Electronic Systems Engineering and leads the Secure Intelligent and Efficient Systems Lab. His research interests include cryptography, hardware security, emerging computing paradigms, hardware accelerators and chip design. He is the recipient of several awards including the President of India Gold Medal, Qualcomm Innovation Fellowship, Pratiksha Trust Young Investigator Award, ABB Research Award and Intel Rising Star Faculty Award.